

the future of sleep

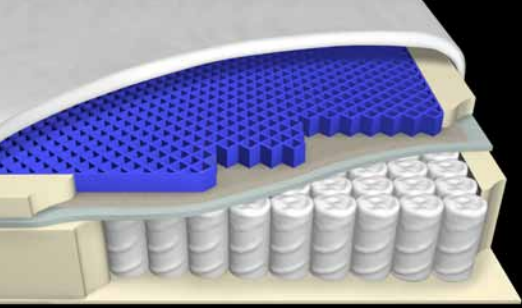

SomniGel™ is scientifically engineered to cushion for pressure relief, provide airflow for cool, consistent sleep, and flex for support. The unique design of SomniGel uses hollow columns constructed of pure gel to deliver an array of long-lasting benefits.

Good for your customers.

- Self-reinforcing gel conforms to the body for total support.
- Columns buckle as weight is applied, redistributing the weight to surrounding columns and relieving pressure hotspots such as hips and shoulders.
- SomniGel transfers heat away from you and the sleeping surface better than memory foam, providing a cooler, more restful sleep.
- Hollow columns allow air to flow easily, keeping it cooler than memory foam.
- With a contact sleeping surface comprised of 22% soothing gel and 78% open air, SomniGel doesn't push back when laid on.
- Unlike other modern materials, SomniGel won't lose firmness or take a body impression.
- SomniGel's real gel construction is hypoallergenic, non-toxic, odorless, and free of byproducts.

Good for you.

- SomniGel is made by Leggett & Platt, industry innovators with over 600 bedding-related patents.
- Because we own the entire manufacturing process at our plant in Carthage, Missouri, we are able to ensure the quality of SomniGel and provide a consistent, ready supply.
- SomniGel is easily demonstrable at point-of-sale because of the unique buckling gel structure and pressure-relieving properties.
- Similar gel products have proven valuable in the healthcare industry and have enjoyed success in international consumer bedding markets.
- SomniGel is an exciting new gel product that will help you differentiate yourself in the over-crowded bedding industry.

Customized to fit your needs

SomniGel comes in a distinct shape designed with better airflow and a lower thermal resistance than memory foam, creating a cooler night's sleep by dissipating body heat into and away from the sleep surface. Available in several supportive size and height options, SomniGel allows customization for any mattress need.
